

"The Fighter Pilot"

A short feature starring YOU....

The movie opens with a shot of you, strapped into the cockpit of a legendary jet trainer and looking amazingly like a real fighter pilot. Fully briefed and ready for action, you take off from Van Nuys, climbing at a rate of 4000 feet per minute. The camera turns to show the great view you have of Hollywood and the Los Angeles basin from the air. In minutes, the scenery changes. You're flying over the Mojave desert. There, above the cacti and tumbleweed, we see you experiencing loops, rolls, Immelmans and more. We almost feel like we're in the cockpit with you, controlling a full-throttle military jet with your fingertips.

You're not just the star of this short film. You share screenwriting credits. You determine what maneuvers you'd like to capture on film and whether you'll make low passes through the canyons or fly low over the ocean.

Our film production team has won five Emmy Awards for "Excellence in Television Production" and has been actively involved in the making of many Hollywood movies. You retain all rights to the footage to sell, license or display in any venue worldwide.

"Dogfight Over Mojave" Air Combat Jet Training

Other air combat programs use high-powered prop planes to simulate aerial combat. We turn up the speed...a lot. This program isn't cheap, but it's worth every single penny. You and a friend complete three separate sorties so you can complete all the shots required to make your very own film about AIR COMBAT Tactics with you as the stars

Sortie One: The orientation. The cameras follow you and a friend as you get a feel for the jet and the maneuvers and receive your first experience in controlling the aircraft.

Sortie Two: Your second flight has the two of you, each in a separate jet flying in formation and learning basic scissors and yo yo tactical maneuvers.

Sortie Three: Hold on to your stomach. You'll engage in full battle, pulling up to 5Gs.

Special Introductory Price: $15,000 includes complete film production of all six L-39 flights total, shared by two.

The L-39 Albatross

The L-39 jet trainer was born in Czechoslovakia and made its international debut at the 1977 Paris Air Show.

Known for being extremely agile and providing a spectacular view from both cockpits, the subsonic L-39 is still used for training by many European air forces.

The modern, single engine trainer / light-attack aircraft features a pressurized cabin, air conditioning and tandem seating. It's rated for +8 / -4 g's and is perfect for performing a variety of aerobatic maneuvers. The L-39C is known to be highly reliable and easy to maintain.

Hollywood Top Gun Questions & Answers

When can I make my video? Flights are possible and film crews are available year-round but must be scheduled in advance.

Do I need to be a pilot or have prior jet flying experience? No. We'll send you up with an expert L-39 pilot. The L-39 is a jet trainer and was designed so it could easily be flown by student fighter pilots. The pilot in command can actually have his hands on the controls at the same time you do, helping to guide you through maneuvers. On camera, it looks like you're flying.

How long does all this take? The flight itself will last about 45 minutes, but it's a good idea to plan for this video-making adventure to take at least two hours to complete. Your day starts when you meet with your Hollywood stunt pilot and review some of the capabilities and safety systems of the L-39. Feel free to ask your pilot how the L-39 is used in making movies. After the flight, you'll take a few minutes to celebrate with the team.

What physical requirements are there? You must have no known heart problems or medical conditions which may be aggravated by g-forces. If you are taller than 6'6" or heavier than 250 pounds, we may not be able to accommodate you. Please ask before scheduling.

Is weather a problem? It can be, although California and Nevada are known for great weather. If you can't fly due to weather, there is no refund. We'll work to reschedule your flight for another day.
