

TANDEM HALO JUMPING

Jump Out of a Perfectly Good Airplane at 30,000* Feet
Because You Can

Prepare for the ultimate skydive adventure — a military-style, high-altitude, low open jump.

At 30,000 feet, the temperature is somewhere around 25 to 35 degrees below zero. Without oxygen, you can expect to be usefully conscious about 30 seconds.

HALO Jump Details:

Where do jumps take place? We jump from a skydive center located in Somerville, TN, less than an hour from Memphis, TN. We also offer jumps out of Lumberton, Mississippi, based on availability.

How much skydiving experience do I need to complete a tandem HALO jump? None. We'll teach you everything you need to know to jump and land safely. (To jump solo, you must have a Class D license.)

Is this safe? Skydiving is inherently risky. You could die. You will be required to sign a release of liability. That said, the guy strapped to you throughout your HALO tandem jump has no desire to die young. He's an expert jumper who will be using the best possible equipment and taking all steps humanly possible to make your adventure as safe as it can be.

What kind of plane is used? You'll jump from a specially modified B90 King Air.

What physical requirements must I meet? You must be in excellent health and weigh less than 225 lbs.

How long is the freefall? You will exit the aircraft at approximately 30,000 feet (depending on conditions) and experience up to two minutes of freefall.

Is there anything else I should know? Men should be clean-shaven so oxygen masks will fit snugly.

Can you describe the program? Plan to arrive at the jump zone in Somerville, TN by 11am on Saturday. You'll spend the entire afternoon getting fitted for equipment and training with our expert HALO jump team. You'll finish your training in time for dinner. We recommend you stay somewhere nearby because you'll need to be back at the drop zone by 6:30 am on Sunday morning. If all goes as scheduled, you'll have completed your incredible adventure by noon. Weather doesn't always cooperate, so please have Monday available as a back-up day.
