

The Flight Instructor

Flight Instructor and L-39 owner Gary Solkovits is Type Rated in the L-39 and holds a variety of FAA certifications, including aerobatic instructor and advanced ground school instructor. He is authorized by the FAA to certify others in the flying of the L-39.

Gary's L-39 knowledge and flying expertise led to his participation in a top-secret government research project.

You can see Gary and his L-39 at airshows throughout the country. These are a few of the 2004 shows where you may meet Gary:

4/13-4/19: Sun 'n Fun EAA Fly-In
Lakeland, Florida

5/1-5/2: Air & Sea Show
Ft Lauderdale, Florida

7/27-8/2: EAA AirVenture Oshkosh
Oshkosh, Wisconsin

The Demo Flight Experience

What's Next?

If you choose to continue with your L-39 flight training, Gary will provide you with a customized training program. The amount of classroom and flight time required to prepare for your LOA checkout flight (it's now called a Type Rating) varies according to one's prior flying experience.

If you're interested in purchasing an L-39 or an ownership share in one, let us know. Jet Fighters International is a licensed aircraft dealer.

Executive Airport

Ft. Lauderdale's Executive Airport is South Florida's premier general aviation facility. It features two runways and 24 hour FAA air traffic control. There are several hotels nearby for those needing overnight accommodations in Ft. Lauderdale. Contact Incredible Adventures for more information.

Questions & Answers

When is training available? Flight training is offered year-round but must be scheduled in advance.

Do I need to be a pilot? Yes

Some exceptions to this rule are possible. Please contact Incredible Adventures to find out if you qualify for a demo flight in the L-39.

How much does it cost and how long is the program? The introductory flight lesson is $3250 US. Expect approximately 45 minutes of ground school followed by approximately 45 minutes of flying. By the time you add safety briefings and the pre-flight check, you can expect the entire experience to last about three hours.

Is there a discount for multiple flights and additional ground school? Possibly. Contact Incredible Adventures to ask about custom flight packages.

What physical requirements are there? You must have no known heart problems or medical conditions which may be aggravated by g-forces. Eventually, in order to be certified in the L-39, you will need a current flight medical. If you are taller than 6'6" or heavier than 250 pounds, we may not be able to accommodate you. Please ask before purchasing training.

Is weather a problem? It can be, depending on the time of year. It is always good to have a "back-up day" available in your schedule.

L-39 Albatross

The L-39 jet trainer was born in Czechoslovakia and made its international debut at the 1977 Paris Air Show.

Known for being extremely agile and providing a spectacular view from both cockpits, the sub-sonic L-39 is still used for training by many European air forces.

The modern, single engine trainer / light-attack aircraft features a pressurized cabin, air conditioning and tandem seating. It's rated for +8 / -4 g's and is perfect for performing a variety of aerobatic maneuvers.

In 1997, Boeing Aircraft Company purchased 35% of Aero Vodochody, the jet's Czech manufacturer. The L-39C is known to be highly reliable and easy to maintain.
